Candy Hahn is a mosaic artist, based in Port Lavaca, Texas, who began creating mixed-media mosaic artwork in 2009. Candy explains her work, "Mosaics and mixed-media mosaics are my niche. I love taking things we see as broken, such as shards of glass and tile along with found or discarded items, and bringing them to life in beautiful new forms. We do the same thing in our lives, and mosaics are the perfect medium for us to visualize the beauty that can come from imperfection." Candy specializes in using photographs as a model to translate images into custom mosaic projects.

Candy's artwork was recently highlighted in a Mosaic Art blog titled, "Composition and Correcting the Model," by Joe Moormon, artist.
